Local News Map Data

ABOUT THIS PROJECT

The Local News Map is a crowd-sourced resource that tracks what is happening to local newspapers, broadcast outlets and online/digital news sources in communities across Canada. The map displays information going back to 2008, the start of a deep recession and a turning point for many previously profitable local news organizations. This report summarizing the latest information gleaned from the map is published every two months along with a spreadsheet displaying the latest data. Both are archived here.

The map displays markers that represent changes to free local daily newspapers, paid subscription local daily newspapers, community newspapers (published fewer than five days per week), private/public radio stations, private/public television stations and online/digital news sources, including online radio stations, newsletters, web-based digital news sites and other emerging online formats.

The following types of changes to local news operations are recorded on the map:

- the closing or launch of a news outlet
- service improvements such as a new or extended local television newscast
- service reductions such as a reduction in the number of times a newspaper publishes per week
- mergers of local news outlets that result in the launch of a new entity and/or the closing of an existing news operation
- local free daily newspapers that become community newspapers
- local paid-subscription daily newspapers that become community newspapers
- local news operations that shift to making content available online only

Map markers only reflect the most recent change at a news outlet so a digital site that launched in 2016 would show up on the map/in the data as a “new” online/digital outlet. If that news operation subsequently expanded service by, for instance, opening bureaus in nearby communities, the marker would be changed to a “service increase” marker and appear that way in the overall data. The marker description would, however, include information about the history of the launch and any other previous changes.

A local news organization is defined as a news outlet that maintains independence from those it covers, demonstrates a commitment to accuracy and transparency in reporting methods, and is devoted primarily to reporting and disseminating timely, originally produced news about people, places, issues and events in a defined geographic area.

When users click on a map marker, a pop-up box displays the name and owner of the news outlet along with information on what changed, the community name, when the change occurred, language of operation and links to the source of information about the change. Filters allow users to sort the markers by news outlet ownership, media type and type of change.

The information that registered users add to the map about changes to local newspaper, radio, television and online/digital news sources is displayed using color-coded markers. Map administrators also regularly add markers. The fact that the pace of change is steady but slow helps ensure the accuracy of map data because, with fewer than a dozen markers typically added each month, administrators are able to verify each crowd-sourced submission. This includes reviewing the contents of links that provide details of the change that has occurred. These links are published with the markers so the source of the information is clear to map users. The journalists, researchers, journalism students, media owners and community members who visit the site and are quick to point out errors also constitute a form of quality control for the data.

This project is the result of a collaboration between Professor April Lindgren, lead investigator for the Local News Research Project at Toronto Metropolitan University's School of Journalism and Associate Professor Jon Corbett, who leads the University of British Columbia's SpICE Lab (Spatial Information for Community Mapping). Funding for this project has been provided by the Rossy Foundation, the Ken and Debbie Rubin Public Interest Advocacy Fund, the Canadian Geospatial and Open Data Research Partnership, the Canadian Media Union/CWA Canada, Canadian Journalists for Free Expression, a Mitacs Accelerate grant, Unifor and Toronto Metropolitan University.

Worth noting

General

- between 2008 and April 1, 2024, a total of 519 local news operations closed in 344 communities across Canada
- community newspapers, which publish fewer than five times per week, account for 77 per cent or 398 of those closings
- 226 new local news outlets launched between 2008 and April 1, 2024, in 158 communities

Notes and observations

A special report published in mid-2022 that examined the effects of the pandemic on news media in Canada suggested difficult times may be ahead given the end of government COVID subsidies and uncertain prospects for a major recovery in advertising. Recent developments suggest those difficult times are here.

Notable developments between January 1, 2023 and April 1, 2024 include:

- a resurgence in local news outlet closures after a lull in 2021 and 2022. Of the 37 closures, 30 were community newspapers and seven were privately-owned radio stations. Nearly half of the closings occurred in the Montreal area in August 2023 when Métro Média announced it was halting publication of 17 community newspapers. The company declared bankruptcy a month later.

- A wave of cuts - actual and proposed - affecting the provision of broadcast news:
 - In June 2023, BCE Inc. announced the layoff of 1,300 people and the closing of six local radio stations. Bell Media, which is part of BCE, also told the federal telecommunications regulator that its 35 local television stations are under financial strain and asked for major reductions in local news content requirements. If the Canadian Radio-television and Telecommunications Commission (CRTC) agrees, Bell Media's television stations in major markets will no longer have to broadcast six hours of locally reflective news per week. In smaller markets, Bell wants permission to broadcast fewer than three hours of locally reflective news per week.
 - CBC/Radio Canada announced in early December 2023 that it will cut about 600 union and non-union positions over the next year and will not be filling about 200 currently vacant positions. The cuts, along with reduced English and French programming budgets, are required to save about $125 million in the 2024-2025 fiscal year, the public broadcaster said. The impact of the cuts on local news coverage is still unclear.
 - CTV announced in February 2024 that effective immediately CTV News @ Noon newscasts on all CTV stations except Toronto were cancelled along with the 6 p.m. and late night weekend newscasts on all CTV and CTV2 stations except Toronto, Montreal, and Ottawa. CTV newscasts on federal stat holidays on all stations except Toronto also ceased. CTV and CTV2 stations in 21 markets were affected.
- SaltWire Network, the largest newspaper owner in Atlantic Canada, filed for creditor protection in March 2024. In addition to publishing four daily newspapers - the Chronicle Herald in Halifax, the Cape Breton Post in Sydney, N.S., the Guardian in Charlottetown, P.E.I. and the Telegram in St. John's, N.L., SaltWire owns 14 weeklies throughout Atlantic Canada except in New Brunswick. The publications have so far remained open as restructuring efforts continue.
- Two months after entering into creditor protection, Surrey, B.C.-based Black Press announced on March 25, 2024 that the company has restructured, been sold and will continue its news operations. The company publishes 150 daily and weekly newspapers, magazines and websites in Canada and the United States, including dozens of community newspapers in Western Canada.
- a stall in the number of new local news outlet launches. Map data show only two news outlets launched last year. This year is also off to a slow start. So far in 2024, only FlamboroughToday.com, a local news website launched in February by Village Media to serve the Flamborough, Ontario community, has emerged.

- a massive increase in the number of publications that have abandoned print and are now published online only. All of the 97 publications affected were community newspapers. Nordstar accounted for most of the changes - the company announced in September 2023 that all of its 71 community newspapers in Ontario would immediately become digital-only publications. The decision came as the company put its Metroland Media Group division into creditor protection under the Bankruptcy and Insolvency Act.

Recent information added to the Local News Map

Since the last Local News Map update on February 1, 2024, 14 new markers representing changes to local news media were added to the map including three from previous years that came to our attention. Among the changes:

- A new marker was added for a community newspaper that closed: Wreckhouse Weekly in Port aux Basques, Newfoundland, closed in February 2024.
- A new marker was added for a new community newspaper: The Lunenburg Barnacle in Lunenburg, Nova Scotia, launched in February 2023.
- A new marker was added for a new online news outlet: FlamboroughToday.com in Flamborough, Ontario, launched in February 2024.
- A new marker was added for a television station that increased service: CHEK in Victoria, British Columbia, was purchased by a group of employees in September 2009 and expanded local news content programming.
- 2 new markers were added for community newspapers that shifted fully online: Le Saint-Armand in the Brome-Missisquoi region in Quebec stopped publishing a print edition in June 2023 and Niagara-on-the-Lake Local in Niagara-on-the-Lake, Ontario, published its final print edition in February 2024.
- 8 markers were added and 13 were updated for television stations that decreased service: On Feb. 8, 2024, CTV announced the cancellation of newscasts that affected service in 21 markets. Effective immediately, CTV News @ Noon newscasts on all CTV stations except Toronto were cancelled along with the 6 p.m. and late night weekend newscasts on all CTV and CTV2 stations except Toronto, Montreal, and Ottawa. CTV newscasts on federal stat holidays on all stations except Toronto also ceased. Eight new markers were added for CTV and CTV2 stations in Edmonton, Alta.; Moncton, N.B.; Halifax, N.S.; Ottawa, Ont.; Prince Albert, Sask.; and Vancouver, Dawson Creek, and Terrace, B.C. Thirteen additional map markers for CTV stations that were already on the map were updated to reflect the service cuts for stations in Calgary, Alta.; Victoria, B.C.; Winnipeg, Man.; Montreal, Que.; Regina, Saskatoon and Yorkton, Sask.; and Barrie, Kitchener, London, Ottawa, Sudbury and Windsor, Ont.
